

America is Changing . . . Texas is Changing . . . San Angelo is Changing... And Here's Why!

Part 4 of a 4-part Series:

At last we come to the bottom line: what actions can we take to protect ourselves, our families and our communities from the onslaught of Islam's civilization jihad and their singular goal of imposing sharia law over all of us?

Let us begin with a reminder and a caution: the enemy at our doorstep is Islam, not Muslims. Everybody has a human right to believe what they will. In fact, it is a right no one, no government, no law can take away, even by force. Thinking is the most fundamental of human characteristics. You cannot be human and not think, nor can you think without having beliefs. That is precisely why totalitarian systems can never succeed.

At the top of the list of things that must be defended and protected are the Constitution and the Bill of Rights.

Pressure legislators at the state and federal levels to pass American Law for American Courts (ALAC) to make sure our Constitution remains the supreme law of the land. This should be a no-brainer. Question openly the loyalty of anyone, official or private citizen, who would oppose this measure. Sharia is completely incompatible with our Constitution. Expose legislators and judges who fail to keep their oaths to "support, protect and defend the Constitution of the United States against all enemies, foreign and domestic." If officials won't "bear true faith and allegiance to the same," they not only deserve to be removed from office, they must be removed for our own safety and protection.

Aggressively defend our Bill of Rights, especially the first and second amendments. Bullies depend on their victims being afraid to speak up and defend themselves. When some college professor, or more likely his brain-washed student, proposes a restriction on free speech, turn the tables on them. "You mean you shouldn't be allowed to voice a different opinion?" Remind them that they will be subject to the same measures they are advocating. Then watch them dance.

Likewise, on gun-control, don't be intimidated by the false narrative that defending yourself or your loved ones is a provocation. It isn't. An armed society is a free society, which is precisely why the second amendment says "A well regulated [i.e., disciplined] Militia being necessary to the security of a free State . . ."

Now let's look at what you can do locally.

Step One: Educate yourself. Learn all you can about Islam. Available resources include free websites on the internet, books and pamphlets at reasonable costs, lectures and seminars featuring expert guest speakers—often free or they request voluntary donations. There are also formal training courses designed primarily for law enforcement but which are sometimes open to the public.

The Obama administration, with assistance from the Muslim Brotherhood, aka the Council on American Islamic Relations (CAIR), purged all references to Islam, Jihad and Muslim terrorist involvement in terror attacks from training courses in the state, justice and defense departments. The willing media were complicit in minimizing and deflecting attention from Islamic involvement in the destabilization of our country and the fracturing of our society.

Advocate as many members of local law enforcement attend as many of these courses as possible.

There is, of course, bad information out there too, distortions, misrepresentations and flat-out lies. Once you get into your research project, however, it won't take you long to distinguish between truth and deception.

Warning: it is difficult for those of us brought up in the Judeo-Christian tradition to imagine a culture that not only tolerates but actually mandates lying, cheating, stealing, enslaving, raping, mutilating and murdering men, women and children. But closing our eyes to the truth because it seems incredible won't make it go away. Every step Islamists take without opposition gives them strength and opportunity. In the 1,400 years since Mohammed was poisoned by one of his wives, his followers have killed 270,000,000 people. They didn't think the threat was real either, until they became its victims.

One of the biggest mistakes made by the defenders of freedom is to accept the opposition's narrative, that is, their definition of what the problem is, or more likely what the solution is. Gun control, for instance, isn't the solution to gun violence. Gun control restrictions are the cause of gun violence. If you wanted to shoot a bunch of people for whatever reason, where would you go? To a gun-free zone, of course. You'd be safe there!

Step Two: Spread the word. Share what you learn with family, friends, neighbors. Expose Islam for what it is, and don't be shy about it. Theology comprises only 14% of Islam. The other 86% is totalitarian politics. We can tolerate their religion, but we cannot tolerate their politics. Praying 5 time a day is a religious practice. Throwing homosexuals off roofs and performing female genital mutilation are not. They are barbarian acts, completely unworthy of our respect or legal protection. On the contrary they should be prosecuted for what they are: murder and mayhem.

Encourage pastors and other religious leaders to study Islam and address it from the pulpit. Contrast its doctrines and attitudes with Judeo-Christian precepts and values, e.g., kill the unbeliever wherever you find him versus love your enemies and pray for them; the role of women (no female imams, as there are women clergy); the Koran (the absolute literal, immutable words of Allah) versus the Bible (the inspired word of God); Islam's completely distorted views on Jesus, the crucifixion, resurrection and the trinity.

Step Three: Take action. Here's where many people fall down on the job. No, somebody else isn't going to take care of this problem, because your friends and neighbors all think the same way you do. For them, you're the neighbor who's going to handle the situation. You can't do all of the things listed, but you can do some. You can at least do one of them. Your reward will be getting to do it again. It gets easier.

Nevertheless, you will have to be ready for Muslims and ignorant non-Muslims to challenge you about your opposition to Islam, to misrepresent your opinions and lie about their intentions. Answer them with facts. When they realize you know what you're talking about, they will avoid further open discussions with you; instead they'll revert to innuendo, insults and name calling. That's when you know you're winning.

Step Four: Be persistent. You have the moral high ground in every exchange/confrontation with pro-Islamists, so don't back off. This is important. When Muslims run into determined opposition, they back off. We've all seen media pundits ask politicians bold questions, then sit quietly back while the politicians blivate without ever being challenged about their empty replies. You owe the people you are questioning courtesy and good manners. You don't owe them subservience. You are not their subjects. While they won't like being reminded of it, they are your representatives. They work for you. Put the pressure on them, and make sure they know you are going to continue to put the pressure on them to get a truthful response to your legitimate question.

Ask questions like: "I don't understand why you want to do such-and-such. Can you explain it in terms I can understand?" Then follow up, if appropriate, with, "But you haven't answered my question. Let's try again. About so-and-so..." or "You haven't answered my question, What are you trying to hide?"

In other words, put them on the defensive. The more they resort to name calling, the more you can be certain they can't defend their positions.

Remember, too, the war ahead of us will not be won in a single battle. We are not fighting a psychopathic individual or national dictator, like Hitler or Pol Pot, but a perverted way of life (and death) that destroys the human spirit and whole civilizations. You will not understand that, however, unless you study its history and stand up for western values that make us honor life more than they value death.

Please note: Toleration is not a virtue. Read that again. Toleration is not a virtue. It is the temporary acceptance of an imperfection. You may choose to tolerate someone slurping their soup without being guilty of a crime, but you cannot choose to tolerate the screams of a 9-year-old girl being forced to have sex with her 52-year-old "husband" without being complicit in her rape.

Recommendation: if someone claims to be offended by a statement you have made, do not apologize. Instead ask them to explain why they're offended.

The time for subtlety is over. Say it like it is. Refuse to be politically correct. PC is just another term, another euphemism, for lying. If someone is “offended” by the truth, they must justify their claim before you can justify your response. Don’t let them put the cart before the horse. Stick to your guns, figuratively speaking. This is not the same as being impolite or discourteous. You can say the emperor has no clothes without being obnoxious. If, on the other hand, speaking the truth provokes an obnoxious response, you know you’ve hit home.

Step Five: Get to know the right people. They include your representative on city council, the mayor, your county commissioner, school board members, teachers, city hall employees, including members of the planning and zoning boards. Let them know you know what’s going on and support their efforts to preserve our Judeo-Christian values. This is important. How do you do it? By attending their meetings, if possible. This is an excellent opportunity for you to find out which realm of influence most interests or affects you, so you can concentrate there. Form grass roots alliances. At various meetings and forums, find people with whom you share interests in/emphasis on particular subjects.

If face-to-face challenges aren’t for you, write letters to them. One letter to a politician represents at least 50 constituents. At the national level 50 can be ignored, but not at the local level. A handwritten letter represents even more. Telephone calls, emails, comments on Facebook and other social media are closely monitored and tallied. Politicians really do pay attention, especially in contested areas. A statement like: “I (or my friends) have supported you in the past, but we’re having our doubts now. This issue is important to us. Please don’t let us down.” Will get personal attention.

Here are some additional suggestions for written communications:

- Keep letters/emails short. No more than one page. Shorter is better.
- Confine each letter or email to one subject. If you have multiple grievances, write more letters.
- Don’t worry about style, spelling and punctuation; they’re interested in what you have to say, in your ideas/sentiments.
- Do not write in all CAPS. It’s equivalent to shouting, is hard to read and very annoying. Your message may not even be read.
- Always be courteous, polite; that doesn’t mean you can’t be frank and honest.

Summary:

America is under siege. Islam is on the move. It has overwhelmed much of western Europe and threatens to do the same in the United States. Let me remind you what the Muslim Brotherhood says in their Strategic Plan for America:

The process of settlement is a ‘Civilization-Jihad Process’ with all the word means. The Iqwan [Muslim Brotherhood] must understand that their work in America is a kind of grand jihad in eliminating and destroying the Western civilization from within and ‘sabotaging’ its miserable house by their hands and the hands of the believers... We must possess a mastery of the art of ‘coalitions,’ the art of ‘absorption’ and the principles of ‘cooperation.’

They couldn't make it any more clear. The Muslim Brotherhood has developed and documented a carefully programmed offensive called Civilization Jihad, the well-coordinated infiltration into American political, legal, economic, military, educational and social institutions. The end game is the nullification of our Constitution and its replacement with Sharia Law under an international caliphate. A major source of funding comes from Saudi Arabia.

Islam, however, is neither omnipotent nor inevitable. Ultimately it has only the power we give it, and we give it that power when we do not fight back. Pay attention to what is going on. If members of your family, if friends, neighbors, liberals, conservatives, college professors or politicians say it isn't going to happen here, remind them Dearborn, Michigan and Minneapolis, Minnesota have already fallen to Islam.

Let our watchword not be a passive, fatalistic motto "It can't happen here," but a determined vow that "With the grace of God, we won't let it happen here."
