

This Ain't Yo Grandma's Church

...she'd be rolling over in her grave...

It almost seems surreal that we are living in a time when we need to take a serious look at a church before associating ourselves with it. Church is supposed to be a “safe” place to go. Stories have been written about being able to run to the church for refuge and peace. The spiritual leaders there should be trusted leaders in the community, easily respected. Fast forward that reality check to today and unfortunately, we need to awaken the sleeping congregants in the church. They are being led astray.

I had the opportunity last week to spend a couple of days with Trevor Loudon, from New Zealand, who did the well acclaimed documentary “Enemies Within,” which dealt with the Muslim Brotherhood and other organizations that have infiltrated our federal government in Washington, D.C. Today he is in the midst of completing his next movie. This one is dealing with the infiltration of our churches, a topic in which I am vastly interested.

Quaint little ole San Angelo, is following the nationwide trend in church deterioration. Who would have “thunk it?” But, it is true. The Episcopal Church of the Good Shepherd, here in our community, experienced a major split a few years back. My parents were members there twenty to thirty years ago. The local church split over doctrine: The first issue was the authority of Jesus as Lord and Savior and the Bible being the inerrant Word of God; secondly “gay rights in the church,” dealing with gay issues and gay clergy. Those who were against the current Episcopal trend of allowing gay priests and changing traditional Biblical doctrine left and associated themselves with the Anglican Church, which is where the Episcopalians split from at their origination.

There are numerous churches here in San Angelo that are part of what is called the Interfaith Movement. That sounds harmless, probably a positive thing, which couldn't be further from the truth. The Interfaith Movement is a ploy of the Islamic infiltration into our country. The purpose is to hoodwink the participants into thinking Muslims are friendly, harmless neighbors to have. Their propaganda is thick, well planned, and pre-orchestrated to achieve this goal.

Southland Baptist Church scheduled two such Interfaith Dialogue events. One was scheduled for November 5th, but the imam was a no-show at the last minute. That was the day when a lone gunman walked into a church in Sutherland Springs, Texas, and massacred twenty-six church attendees and injured countless others. At that time, the shooter was still unknown, though there was plenty of speculation that he was a Muslim. The attendees were told he had received a short notice temporary duty assignment and had to leave on short notice that afternoon. Only the Jewish participant, Ami Flint, was there and she spoke of Judaism.

It was rescheduled for Sunday, February 11, 2018. Once again, the imam canceled. Since he was the main speaker for this event, the entire event was canceled.

My question is this: Why would a Christian church invite into its facility someone who represents an ideology whose primary purpose is to either forcibly cause Christians and Jews to submit to Islam (Islam means submit) or kill them? We are witnessing this daily across the world. It's not a myth. Christians and Jews are being slaughtered daily in the name of Allah.

It only takes a few minutes of speaking with someone from a country that has already been infiltrated to discover the nightmare they are living. Those in the know, say that the United Kingdom is a lost cause. It is quickly falling completely under Islamic rule, which means Sharia Law and a third-world existence.

There are a few European countries that are fighting back and standing their ground. They are witnessing firsthand the destruction of history, ancient ruins, museums, music, culture, society, etc. in their neighboring countries. A dear friend of mine in Austria, Elisabeth Sabaditsch-Wolff, tells the horrific truth of the destruction happening in her homeland. Women and children are gang raped in the city square, but no one will go to the aid of the victims, because the massive mobs of Muslim men surrounding them and watching will turn on them in a heartbeat.

It is alarming when people from other countries are coming to America to warn us of what is really happening and heading our way. Elisabeth from Austria, Trevor Loudon from New Zealand, Nick Adams from Australia, and countless others. We best heed their warnings.

I cannot encourage you enough to take twenty minutes and listen to the interview I did a few days ago with Trevor Loudon on this very subject. We need to understand what is happening, why it is happening, and acknowledge the fact of what the end result will be if we do not STOP IT.

Until next time...
