

NO!!!!!!

This Is Not What We Deserve

Over the last few weeks, I've heard several people use the expression that our country is getting "what we deserve." While those words would ring a bit true for a minute, ultimately they do not. I guess my take on this is as different as those who think the Bible is a book full of rules. I don't think that. To me, "it's a love letter" written with blood.

The world's best spy novelist could not have written a script as complicated, unbelievable, intriguing, heart wrenching, and debate argumentative as the reality of the times in which we live. It's truly beyond comprehension on so many levels, dressed up with bloviating talking-heads awaiting the next juicy morsel to regurgitate.

We have five people running for President of the United States. On the Republican ticket we have a womanizing, name calling, narcissistic, bully, billionaire named Donald Trump. On the Democratic ticket we have a perpetual liar, thief, treason qualified, Muslim loving, former diplomat named Hillary Clinton.

On the Libertarian party ticket we have a pot smoking, Aleppo moment making, tongue hanging out, seven-year engaged to partner, former Governor named Gary Johnson. The Green ticket gives us a "free education" activist, anti-Israel, reparation believing, freeing political prisoners, doctor by the name of Jill Stein. Jumping into the race in August, after most ballots were on their way to the printers, the Independent party gave us a former CIA agent, a Mormon named Evan McMullin.

Where's the Christian? Where is the American values candidate? Where is the candidate who can restore hope, prosperity, safety, civility, and respect to our country? That's the real question.

In the wake of the latest bombshells, Trump's open mic and Hillary's transcripts of speeches, it generates the spirit of throwing your hands up and walking away from it all. These aren't the best of days. These are hard days and hard times.

At this moment, there are only two candidates who could possibly pull off a win. Johnson, Stein, and McMullen have no chance based on Electoral College alone, much less the popular vote. We must choose our candidate for President of the United States from either Trump or Clinton.

Clinton is a better candidate for treason/prison than president. She has lied to the American people, stolen over $200,000 worth of possessions from the White House when they left (and had to eventually return them), broken national security laws and jeopardized our men and women serving our country around the world, abandoned the men in Benghazi and allowed them to be murdered, and destroyed subpoenaed documents. Anyone else would have already been behind bars.

When Trump first announced his candidacy, I liked the fact that he stirred things up and was bringing in people who had never voted before. That was a good thing. He immediately began turning me off when he started his bullying tactics and name calling. I thought, what a joke!

My support was with Ted Cruz. My nephew, Chad Sweet, was his campaign manager. I travelled to Iowa last December to open the CruzCamp Strike Force Team there. I was totally in his camp. Unfortunately, that dream ended abruptly. I could not see myself moving over to support Trump. No way!!!

I attended the Texas State Convention for the Republican Party as a delegate back in May and also served as one of thirty-one people appointed to the Rules Committee. I still could not see myself voting for Trump. I knew I had no other choice, because Clinton is not a choice, but a permission slip to allow her to complete the destruction of our country that Obama has been accelerating during his tenure.

What am I to do? What are so many others to do too?

By August it had clearly become a need to make sure Hillary did not get elected. A Trump sign went up in my yard. A few days later I had the opportunity to spend some time with Lt. Gen. Michael Flynn (ret) who is Trump's military advisor.

Flynn is responsible for helping me get my focus changed and engaged to truly support Trump for President. ...and now this! Oh my!

I had to ask myself a simple question. Did the hot mic conversation really expose anything that shocked me? Decades ago when I used to drink, I'd hear that "type" of conversation. We can even hear those types of comments and suggestive language in movies, sit-coms, or the table next to you at a restaurant nowadays - unless we guard what we watch or who we are around. Shoot, I've heard women talk like that. No, it's not appropriate. No, it's not Presidential. No, I don't approve. Just be careful whoever wants to cast that first stone.

What should be the hot topic today is the content in the speeches Hillary gave to the various corporations. But, interestingly, the Trump story broke just as the Clinton story was leaked, as if it was ready to go for just such a situation. Now we know why the Clinton team didn't feel comfortable making those transcripts public. She says one thing to one group and another to us. One for money, one for votes. The media - well, sex sells and dirty talk, good or bad, pumps those ratings.

So we are going to get what we deserve! NO!

America, with all its flaws, failures, and "deplorables" is still the most magnificent nation in the world. America deserves to be restored, re-enthused, and revived with Patriotism. The blood of countless men and women who have fought for this country since its inception, who have dedicated themselves to build on its Christian heritage, and who have always proved themselves ready to help anywhere in the world when God-given "rights" are being denied, deserves the very best. Always.

We need a bulldog who will roll up his sleeves and fight to get this nation back on course. Maybe God sent us just such a man. He may have nudged and asked lots of others, but they wouldn't leave their comfort zones or security to run, or maybe they were not able to withstand the bullying through the primaries to win. Today the times are nasty. Maybe instead of a statesman, a politician, or a typical candidate, God knew we needed the unpredictable, big-mouthed, bold character of a Trump to make the changes we need at home and abroad. The more Trump gets dumped on for things that lots of people do (not over paying taxes, locker room talk, etc.) and Clinton is allowed to slide through with her heinous crimes, the more I'm thinking Trump may just be God's man. God is known for always picking the most unlikely candidates for assignments.

All I know, is that we need to get on our knees and pray. We need to repent. We need to change our course. We need to change the hearts of millions of people - and that will take God's doing. 2 Chronicles 7:14 says it best, "If my people, which are called by My Name, shall humble themselves, and pray, and seek My Face, and turn from their wicked ways; then will I hear from heaven, and will forgive their sin, and will heal their land." Let us pray....

Until next time....
