The question becomes: How to write an article on a topic that no one wants to hear about, a topic that no one wants to deal with, and one that goes against the propaganda that the mainstream media and politicians are putting out there for us to accept? How's that for an opening!

I spent last Friday sitting through an eight hour briefing in the Metroplex. Twenty-four hours before this scheduled event, the venue canceled the seminar at their facility because of pressure from CAIR. CAIR, the Council on American-Islamic Relations, is the unindicted co-conspirator in the Holy Land Foundation (HLF) trial in Dallas, Texas, in 2008. The United States government identified HLF as a part of the US Palestine Committee (Hamas in the US) and Hamas is a designated terrorist organization. In 2008 they were convicted of giving more than twelve million dollars to support Hamas, a foreign terrorist organization.

In that trial, one of CAIR's board members was sentenced to 65 years in prison, but the numerous follow up trials for the various co-conspirators has not been scheduled yet. Interesting! Anyway, it was this organization that put the heat on our venue to cancel the briefing. They do not like having a former FBI Counter-Terrorism Expert, and a "citizen" who infiltrated CAIR in Washington DC for six months, sharing what's really happening in our country - especially when their target audience for this presentation would be law enforcement. Even a known jihadi was trying to get on the attendee list. Crazy!

So God is good. A new location was found with zero prep and notice. Everyone was contacted with the new destination. Some of us had to eat some hotel reservations and make new ones. Funny! Many of us traveled four and five hours through torrential downpours to get there and a couple of dozen of "local" folks found the change in venues too challenging to attend. Ultimately - everyone was there who God intended to have there. CAIR couldn't find us - the Muslims were not able to infiltrate - and we received a powerful briefing.

I first met John Guandolo, the former FBI agent, last year at a briefing he gave to ACT! for America in San Antonio. It was such an eye-opener for me, and one of the key learning curves I experienced in my journey last year in discovering truth in regards to Islam, ISIS, and terrorism. That was a three hour presentation.

The world has changed greatly in the last year. We have become desensitized to beheadings, people being burned alive and drowned in cages, and now the massive invasion of Europe by Muslims. As Elisabeth Sabaditsch-Wolff from Austria shared with us, Europe is literally being destroyed by able-bodied Muslim men that are pillaging and raping their way across the countries.

While this briefing was rather entry level, eye-opening, and basic education, it is still more than your mind is willing to accept and retain. As Guandolo said, "you have to lay logic aside" to understand what is happening. Islam does not operate on western culture logic. It has its own way of thinking, living, and functioning - and to hell with how westerners function. That's where Americans make one of our greatest mistakes. We try to rationalize and "think" with/from our perspective about what they are doing. They laugh all the way to the bank and back, using that very mindset against us.

While the first couple of hours seemed to cover many of the topics I was familiar with, I was about to hit a couple of walls. When I say walls, what I mean is hard realities that I do not want to hear, do not want to accept as reality, and especially do not like the thought of where that places me with the type of work I find myself doing. Since the briefing, my husband, who also attended, and I have had some really tough talks about the dangers that may be ahead for me/us. I never dreamed I would ever be having these types of conversations with anyone, especially not my spouse.

Not being from a military background or family, I did not catch on as quickly as many in the room did as to what was being presented. Their training instinctively began laying out a military operation before their eyes. They could recognize what is being put into place to quickly destroy us. "Us" being the United States of America.

While I understood and realize the Trojan horse type operation being played out today with the refugees and the danger that poses, I was blind to the battleground that is being staged at all levels in our country. I knew from previous trainings and briefings the dangers of infiltration that had occurred, but the horrific word "battleground" never entered my mind.

The other wall I hit was presented by Chris Gaubatz, the "citizen" who infiltrated CAIR for six months. His incredible story is told in a book called Muslim Mafia that his father co-authored. He brought up the fact that CAIR has people who work round the clock watching the Internet and social media. I already knew that I was being watched and had had several friend requests and followers from people who once you click on their names and look at their page, everything is in Arabic. Nope - don't think we have anything in common or that I want to share with them. Same goes with YouTube followers.

After the last conference on terrorism here in San Angelo that we hosted, I was informed that I had made the SPLC (Southern Poverty Law Center) list of hate groups. Who knew? I was immediately informed that being listed as a hater by them is truly a badge of honor - that you must be doing something right. One of their reporters had infiltrated my conference here and wrote a hit piece targeting several of my speakers from the conference.

Reality check is this - THEY are closer than we are even realizing. Our culture of accepting things as always being nice, safe, and in our best interest, is no longer a real perspective for today's world here in America. Things have grown strangely different, especially over the last twelve to eighteen months.

As I sought the Lord in what and how to convey a small taste of what I had learned from the conference to share in this article, I kept hearing this Scripture in my spirit. "My people are destroyed for lack of knowledge...." (Hosea 4:6) When I pulled up the Scripture on my phone to get the chapter and verse, it was interesting to read the complete verse: My people are destroyed for lack of knowledge: because thou hast rejected knowledge, I will also reject thee, that thou shalt be no priest to me: seeing thou hast forgotten the law of thy God, I will also forget thy children.

...because you have rejected knowledge! Wow! That is exactly what is going on in our country, from the presidency level to the citizens. We are blindly going about our lives like nothing is really happening, all-the-while the enemy is completely staging the battleground all around us here in America to take over our country.

Guandolo was very blunt with this crowd of Texans. He put in our face the Texas arrogance of "just let them try. We're all armed and can take them out." I don't think any of us left that briefing with that feeling any longer. It was very evident that we have been handing over to them the power to wipe us out in an instant for a very long time - even here in Texas.

They - who is/are they? The enemy. Terrorists laying in wait. It is no accident that while we have been busy doing life that they have been gaining positions in our government, our military, our law enforcement, our political arenas, our schools, our medical community, our water and electrical engineering areas, local hotel and motel management/owners, even down to our son's baseball team coaches.

The world knows that "attacking" America head on would be pointless. They would be destroyed. So imagine a game plan that is already fifty years into a seventy or eighty year plan working from the inside. We laugh at such a thought because as Americans we don't think in long-term range planning that might take several generations to bring something about. Hello! The rest of the world does not think or live like we do. Many cultures and religions operate on generational building and accomplishment. Our greatest enemy does too!

I think I have shared enough for now. There is plenty here to chew on for a while. We must step back out of the forest and gain a healthy perspective on reality. We could be in eminent danger very soon. I encourage you to listen to the brief interview I did with John Guandolo after the eight hour briefing. We were both exhausted and starving - but I wanted you to hear firsthand a few key points about what is happening around us - being staged as in preparing a battlefield for war against us.

While we have been busy screaming about restrooms, gender preferences, open borders, refugees, Trump, socialist Sanders, black lives matter, and the Chewbacca mom (she was refreshing), and countless of other critical matters over the last ten years, we have not paid any attention to the quiet invasion and handing over the reins to THE ENEMY. It was forecasted back in the fifties that we would be destroyed within - well - they may have gotten that right unless... we choose to stop, awaken our sleeping selves, and begin to clean house TODAY.

Documents that were uncovered in the investigation of the Holy Land Foundation trial, and others along the way, outline their plans to take over America, dating back to the late 60's, early 70's. When the enemy has a plan, they are successfully executing the plan, and they are still tracking along their preset time frame, we should pay attention. As John Guandolo said several times during the briefing, "I take the enemy at his word." Why does America not?

As I read my article out loud to my husband to see if I had missed any key points to share at this time, he did mention a very important one. It was stressed over and over again, that we must NOT listen to what a Muslim says to a non-Muslim (us), but rather listen to what Muslims say to one another. When you understand their ideology, you'll understand the critical importance of this statement. They are required to lie to us to maintain their cover-up for their ultimate plans, but they must never lie to a fellow Muslim. If you want truth about their operations and plans, listen to a Muslim talk to a Muslim, such as Chris Gaubatz did when he infiltrated CAIR.

There was another verse that also kept rattling around in my spirit. It says, "And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." (John 8:32) That is my prayer. May America awaken before it is awakened defending herself. May we be strong enough to make the hard decisions and act courageously to carry them out. To save America is worth everything we have to fight for her. Unfortunately, it is going to be a fight, and a nasty one at that. It's called a revolution.

Until next time...
