

Things Are Not What They Seem

What a Strange & Dangerous Time in Which We Live

You must wonder what is really happening around the President. The latest to exit is Steve Bannon. It started with Gen. Michael Flynn, his National Security Adviser; then Katie Walsh, Deputy Chief of Staff; K.T. McFarland, Deputy National Security Adviser; Mike Dubke, Communication Director; Sean Spicer, Press Secretary;

Reince Priebus, Chief of Staff; Michael Short, Assistant Press Secretary; Anthony Scaramucci, Communications Director; and now Steve Bannon, Chief Strategist.

There are some very strong conservatives in that list above. We must question if they were forced out and moderates/establishment types are filling the voids. There is no question - a major shift is happening - a reset. Our President needs our prayers; so does the nation.

The horrors of Charlottesville are settling down for now. It is interesting to learn more and more about the caravan of white unmarked vans, the type of vans you'd rent at the airport. They pulled up and stopped just a few blocks from where all the trouble occurred and quickly unloaded their cargo.

Initial reports described the van occupants as people who were later seen brutally fighting with shields and clubs, wooden clubs with nails protruding to tear people's skin. The people who saw them unload thought it was so strange for several reasons: six unmarked white vans obviously working together, how quickly the people exited the vans, the passengers immediately moving out like they were on a mission, and then the vans immediately sped off. Another layer of curiosity is coming to light.

Eyewitnesses are now reporting the strangest reality of all. Many of the people who exited the vans were wearing Black Lives Matter t-shirts and others KKK t-shirts. What? When have you ever seen the two together amicably? When have you ever seen a KKK t-shirt? They were not seated in different vans, but together.

As has happened in numerous communities before, someone is paying people, bussing them in, to go do a job. That job is to stir up racial hatred, tearing at the very fabric of our country. Fingers are pointing at George Soros.

Once again, like questioning why the staffers around President Trump are leaving, we must ask ourselves what is really happening here? What is the ultimate goal and purpose of what we are witnessing? Who is behind it? What shift in our culture is the sought-after end effect?

Desensitizing, deprogramming, and deluding the minds of Americans is at work. It is hard to believe it was only thirty months ago the Jordanian pilot was burned alive in a cage while we watched in horror. We thought there could be nothing more mind-numbing. How could the mind of any man be so deranged to where they could do such a thing to any other human being?

Interestingly, once the mind has been pushed to its outer limits of horror, it does truly numb the conscience. We no longer are aghast when we see the various types of assassinations that are occurring. We are being desensitized to it. It has already become white noise in the background of our lives. Now that is scary. This prepares us for the next level of acceptance.

Through all of this, one rumbling continues to linger and possibly building momentum: the removal of statues, names, and memorials depicting our past. It is said if you don't remember your past, you're destined to repeat it. It's sort of the Biblical once more round the mountain you'll go.

I wonder if the people who are roping and pulling down these monuments could tell you the story behind the person, what they did that caused the people of their day, or shortly after, to feel led to create a monument to remember these men? Apparently one group did not recognize or even know the story behind the bust of Abraham Lincoln that was torched. Anarchy is what is genuinely happening, and it is growing.

We cannot erase our history that included slavery. If anything, that horrific blemish on our past has become part of the strength and fabric of the unique people we have become today. In my lifetime, I have seen the end of segregation and the evolution to acceptance, comfortable joint efforts, and now a more natural mix of people of all colors. We are not 100% there yet, but let's not rip things apart now and move us back decades.

Lingering for over a year now, the assassinations of police officers continues. This too is another unraveling of our nation. When we turn on the very people who dedicate their lives to protect us from the unruly and deadly parts of our society, then we will eventually end up being a country that is reigned by terror, chaos, and mob mentality.

Who is ripping up President Trump's staff?

Who is bussing in people who willing brutally fight on cue?

Who is causing mobs to want to suddenly tear down statues and history?

Who is driving the continuation of police officer assassinations?

Who is working to destroy our nation?

These are the questions we need to be asking. The actions, and terrible results, are the distractions keeping us from discovering the underlying cause. It's the cause, the motivation, the person behind all this that needs to be drawn out and dealt with properly. Someone is feeding the frenzy and it won't get better until it's exposed.

Pray for our country, pray for our President, and pray for the souls of those who do not understand the truth in how they are being used.

Until next time....
